Losing a Loved One Is Hard. Visiting Them Shouldn't Be.

Why don't you visit more often?

You're not alone - and there are plenty of things keeping you away.

With families scattered across the country - and the world - sometimes we just live too far.

And sometimes, life gets in the way - although we miss our loved ones the most at weddings, birthdays, and milestones.

Even bad weather can keep us home, sometimes for entire seasons.

Physical disabilities and mobility challenges can affect people of all ages, and their ability to pay their respects in person.

Keeping Connection Alive On-Demand Visits, Anytime You Want

AFTR ushers burial site visits into the digital age.

With AFTR, every obstacle preventing you from visiting a loved one disappears. AFTR allows you to speak to your loved one, ensure their burial site is being respected, and extend their second life for all eternity.

We Live in a Mobile App Era.

In the modern world, many daily tasks have gone digital. We prioritize the tasks we can easily do on our phones or tablets. Since the internet and smartphone apps have changed the way we do nearly everything in our day-to-day lives, should something so important be any different?

Changed ordering food

Changed watching movies

Changed shopping

Changed visiting a loved one's resting place. Forever.

Changed listening to music

Changed buying event tickets

Changed traveling and navigation

Changed communication

AFTR App:

Best For	Ensuring the resting place is clean and well-maintained	Staying connected with your loved one from anywhere, any time

My family moved to Paris a couple of years ago, and there is now nobody left to look after the family burial plot back home. We installed AFTR to make sure we know that the graves of three generations are kept clean and respected. The AFTR App helps make sure our loved ones are well-remembered, too. On special anniversaries, I share family stories with my children while accessing their ancestors' resting places virtually.

Testimonials

My widowed grandfather connects to my grandmother's grave every day from his nursing home. Our family installed AFTR on his phone so he would feel a little less lonely, and he says the app has made it so easy for him to talk to her. Before, he was heartbroken not being able to visit but now, he starts every day by checking in with Gran. It's made a tremendous difference in his life since losing her.

I moved to New York for work right after my mother passed away and was devastated not to be able to see her resting place. When the headstone went up I couldn't be there in person, but I was able to stream it virtually and join my siblings in prayer. Today, I connect whenever I'm missing her, and I have got a bunch of her favorite Frank Sinatra songs saved in the app that bring me back to happier times with her.
